Drainoflex stable floor coverings have been declared by experts to be future-oriented and are the right measures to be taken to sensibly counteract shortage of straw and personnel and dung problems. They ensure anti-slip, heat-storing, hygienic surfaces and facilitate procurement and storage of straw and dung.

The highly resistant mats are laid loosely in the horse box and can be combined to choice with straw, shavings, turf or saw dust. By using Drainoflex drainage stable floor coverings animals have been kept for more than 40 years in the appropriate, healthy and rational manner as demanded for horses.

The horses always have dry, elastic and warm bedding. Tension given through standing on hard ground is completely free of swellings. The hooves can no longer break off by pawing the ground end even when used for a longer period of time good conditions in the stable are ensured without ammoniac forming and the generation of stable outdoors.

The challenge against:

- ◆ Straw shortage
- ◆ Costly disposal
- ◆ Hard stand area
- ◆ Much work
- ◆ Urine stench
- ◆ bare concrete floor

How to do the placing

By placing the Drainoflex Rubber Filter Mats one should follow the directions as here below: For the inset of Drainoflex Rubber Filter Mats it is presupposed to have a hard betonfloor with a flush of min. 2 % an a drainage or a drain ground. The drainage may be a grill, a groove or a split floor. If this presupposed should not be available in the horse box, one can by using our „Aco-groove“ quick and cost-effective rebuild the floor.

The Drainoflex Rubber Filter Mats are layed out on the box floor and stay there by their own weight and solid Construction. As a rule one starts at the door and lays so far as possible whole plates. The cutting from the plates after the measures of the boxes can be done with a carpet knife.

The daily cleansing is very easy. Remove the dung with broom and shovel. Two times a year put them completely out and clean them with a water-pressure-machine. Put the mats dry back. Don't forget to flush the groove.
